Dear Dan:

Since returning from Europe in mid-summer, I've lost track of you. With regard to the conference on "U. S. Strategy in Asia," I'm enclosing copies of letters I previously sent to your Malibu address. I will also be calling you at MIT. Since the conference begins Thursday, September 24, I'm trying to corroborate my assumption that you will be there to talk on various subjects, described in the letters and the agenda.

Also, being out of touch with your personal life, I can only say: give my very best regards to Pat.

The conference agenda and participation have been slightly revised since my letter of August 27. There will now be four sessions, since the dinner meeting originally proposed for Thursday evening has been eliminated and its agenda moved to Friday morning:

Thursday, September 24
10:00 - 12:30
2:30 - 5:00 (followed by a reception)

Friday, September 25
10:00 - 12:30
2:30 - 5:00

If there is anything we can do to facilitate things, please be in touch with me. Otherwise, I'm looking forward to seeing you in a few days at the conference.

Cordially,

Earl C. Ravenal
Associate Fellow
